U. S. SPENDING HIT AS SOLONS SLASH FUNDS

House Group Takes Big Cuts at 3 Departments; Raps "Psychology."

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 9 — Declaring elimination of what it called a "deeply entrenched * * * spending psychology" among federal officials, the house appropriations committee today recommended deep slashes in state, commerce and justice department funds.

It sent to the house floor a $938,225,758 bill to finance the three departments and the federal judiciary for the fiscal year starting next July 1. The total represents a 13 per cent cut from budget estimates but a $40,510,759 boost over current year funds.

By agencies the money was earmarked: $143,024,000 for commerce; $104,783,408 for state; $95,168,250 for justice, and $15,350,100 for the judiciary.

All but a small part of the increase went to the commerce and state departments, whose foreign work has been augmented by war's end.

Also Take Cuts

Those two departments, too, took the major budget reductions, 18 per cent in the case of the state department and 17 per cent for commerce.

The committee allowed no funds at all for the state department's separate intelligence unit; chopped its estimate for expanded cultural relations activities almost in half, and sharply pared commerce department requests for the census bureau and the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

The committee approved a state department budget almost five times as large as the last prewar budget after hearing Secretary of State James Byrnes behind closed doors.

Briefly, Byrnes told the committee in that part of his testimony made public, "we are still concerned with the prevention of future wars and with measures which will improve the social and economic well-being of the peoples of the world to the end that the conditions which lead to war will be removed."

Views on Spending

Of federal spending generally, the committee had this to say:

"There seems to have developed during the war years what some have termed 'a spending psychology' and the committee is fearful that this spending psychology has become somewhat too deeply entrenched in the minds of the officials responsible for the operation of our federal establishments. It must be eliminated."

The intelligence unit has been under fire of the house military committee, which has made what it called "strong representations" against asserted "pro-Soviet leanings" of some of the unit's personnel. However, the appropriations committee in eliminating the fund did not mention the military group's action.

The committee said, though, that it was "not satisfied with the extent of investigations being made of employes transferred to the department from other agencies of the government." And it recommended that no one be employed who has not been "thoroughly checked" by the FBI or other investigative agencies.

In the section of its report dealing with the commerce department, the committee publicly ex-

Final Rites Set for Thursday for Former Governor Donahey

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 9 — The body of Alvin (Vic) Donahey, the homespun politician who started out as a printer's devil and became a three-term governor of Ohio and a United States senator, will be buried in his native Tuscarawas county.

Funeral services will be Thursday in New Philadelphia—where "Honest Vic" once ran his own print shop and launched his political career as a township clerk 46 years ago. He died at 72.

Harry K. Filler, a practitioner of the Christian Science church, and the Rev. George Pakens, pastor of New Philadelphia's First Methodist church, will officiate.

Interment will be in the East Avenue cemetery, alongside the graves of the former Democratic governor's parents and two of his children.

Rare Disease Fatal

Donahey died yesterday in Grant hospital of a rare blood disease known as histoplasmosis capsulatum. He had been ill since returning from a Florida vacation a week ago.

His death, coming only eight days after the demise of former Governor Martin L. Davey, elicited eulogies from former colleagues of both parties.

President Truman, who knew him as a fellow senator in Washington from 1924 to 1940, telegraphed his widow:

"I have learned with deepest regret of the loss which has come to you and yours with such a tragic force. Mrs. Truman joins me in this assurance of heartfelt sympathy."

To Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) Donahey's death was "a serious loss to the state of Ohio and a personal loss to me. I have been associated with him, usually on the opposite side of the fence, since 1920.

"I found him sincere and straightforward to friend and foe. As governor and as senator, he believed that the less legislation enacted the better the government would be."

Gov. Frank J. Lausche, Democrat, also paid tribute, saying: "In the history of Ohio he will occupy the position of one of its outstanding governors."

Praised by Bricker

Former Gov. John W. Bricker, Republican, said: "His intensive honesty was an inspiration to everyone. Ohio has lost a fine public servant and I, personally, regret losing a real friend."

His death was attributed to a rare tropical disease whose origin, cause and cure remains a mystery to most physicians, his son-in-law, Dr. James B. Johnson, asserted.

Dr. Johnson, famed as the physician who helped foil the post-war suicide attempt of Japan's former Premier Tojo, said the ailment had been diagnosed in living patients only twice before—the first time in 1906—and in its early stages appeared to be chronic bronchitis.

"We correctly identified the disease a few hours before he died, the physician said, "from an analysis of a lymph gland removed from his neck."

Donahey's death closed a political career which began as a township clerk in 1900 and reached a peak as Ohio governor from 1923 to 1928. Donahey was the first Democrat to win three successive gubernatorial terms.

His political philosophy, he said, centered around this phrase: "I always strive to do the right thing."

The Potato Story

Sounding the note of economy to the tune of ready back-slapping, Donahey laid the foundation for a successful political career in Ohio and a place in the U. S. senate.

He never used his full name, preferring A. Vic Donahey as a signature. But when campaign time came around, he became known as "Honest Vic"—all because of a baked potato.

The potato, which bobbed up on an expense account of a state official, paved Donahey's path to Ohio's statehouse for three consecutive terms—a record unequaled thus far.

"Baked potato, 30 cents," was the way Donahey read the expense item while he was state auditor. "Why," he explained, "I buy a bushel of them for that where I come from." He refused to approve the expense voucher.

From then on economy was his keynote. He started in as auditor in 1912, being elected in the Democratic landslide, and held the post for two four-year terms. In 1916, when he ran for his second term, he polled 577,054 votes, the largest ever given any Democrat on the Ohio ticket up to that time.

His Democratic friends sought to capitalize on his popularity by nominating him for governor in 1920. He lost to Harry L. Davis, a Republican. That was the year in which Warren G. Harding and James M. Cox were opposing candidates for president.

Far Ahead of Ticket

Donahey, however, ran far ahead of his ticket, and two years later was elected governor. He was retained in the office in 1924 and 1926, but declined to seek

DRAFT HOLIDAY PLAN WEIGHED

Congress Committees Reject Some Plans; House Tries for Compromise.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 9 — The house military committee rejected today a proposal to prohibit draft inductions between May 15 and next Feb. 15 and called an afternoon session to vote on a compromise.

The compromise, offered by Rep. Sparkman (D-Ala), calls for a one-year extension of the draft law beyond May 15, with a ban against inductions until Dec. 15 and a provision allowing the President to reinstate the draft after that date if enlistments fall short of expectations.

Required Registration

It would have prohibited practically all inductions but would have required 18-year-olds to register.

On the other side of the capitol the senate military group also studied extension of the draft law. Leaving before the session broke up, Senator Austin (R-Vt.) reported the senate committee had rejected 6 to 4 a proposal to extend the draft for only six weeks.

Austin said the senate committee also tentatively rejected a suggestion to extend the draft for one year but halt inductions.

The house committee tentatively rejected an amendment by Sparkman to write into the new legislation a flat $400 a year pay raise for all service personnel to spur enlistments. Another pay proposal, calling for smaller raises, was still pending.

The house committee also rejected a proposal to raise the minimum draft age from 18 to 21 years. It favored, however, a limitation of 18 months on the service of all inductees, including men now in service as well as future draftees.

STRIKE FADES IN CINCINNATI

Threat of Utility Stoppage Ends with 17-Cent Pay Boost Pact.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 9 — The nearly 1,000,000 residents of the Cincinnati area relaxed today, relieved of a strike threat by 1,400 AFL electrical workers which would have deprived them of light, power and transit services.

A new wage agreement between the union and the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co., announced in Washington last night at the conclusion of four days of U. S. department of labor-conducted conferences, provided an increase of 17 cents an hour—three less than the last union demand and two more than the company's best offer when the talks opened Friday.

International and local officers of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL) attending the Washington conferences predicted that rank and file unions would ratify the new agreement promptly.

REGISTRATION SOARS TO HIGH MARK HERE

Hits 17,296 as Pre-Primary Deadline Arrives.

Registration total rose to 17,296 at the board of elections office yesterday as the deadline for registering to vote in the May primary closed at 9 p. m.

Election board officials announced the total was the largest since 1940, with only about 700 persons failing to register. The high figure in 1940 was 18,000.

Yesterday brought 571 persons to the election board office, 410 to register and 161 to transfer. It was the biggest day the board had had this year, although officials said there was no last-minute rush last night. Business throughout the day was steady, they said.

Clerks at the office today were typing out registration and transfer cards and preparing their files for the May 7 election. Effective yesterday, civilian absentee ballots can be cast. Servicemen's ballots have been accepted for some time now, although the service vote this year is expected to be small.

New School Plan Receives Full Vote of Civic Group

"Watchdog Pledge" To Assure Completion of Program Also Given; Now Goes to Primary.

By W. T. BUCHANAN

The Marion Civic Planning Group last night indorsed the revised program for new and improved school buildings and pledged itself to act as a "watchdog" to see that the program is carried through to completion as now planned.

The action was taken at a meeting of the membership of the Planning Group at Central Junior High school auditorium. Ellis Oller, who with J. B. Bray is co-chairman, presided at the meeting.

Indorsement of the program puts the final stamp of approval on the revised school plans for which Marion voters will be asked to pass a $2,100,000 bond issue at the May 7 primaries.

Plans Summarized

Briefly the plans call for these improvements to the public school system:

A new junior-senior high school on the athletic field site; a new junior high school on North State street; remodeling and reconditioning and construction of community room at Silver and Oak buildings; construction of a community room at Oiney avenue building; installation of a lunch room at Edison building; remodeling of Harding High school into a vocational trade school and a medium-sized downtown auditorium; installation of new electrical wiring and fixtures in all other buildings excepting George Washington building, which is practically new.

Unanimous Indorsement

More than 100 members of the Planning Group voted unanimously to indorse the program after a statement by Co-chairman Bray on the revised plans.

Mr. Bray reported to the group that the steering committee had recommended indorsement of the program by the entire group.

"We appreciate," he said, "that the proposed plan will not suit every one. We doubt if a plan that would suit everyone could be prepared by this or any other organization or by the school board.

"We believe the revised program for new and improved school buildings is a definite improvement on the program which almost passed last November. We are unanimous in believing that Marion must approve a forward looking program of this kind and that this is the time to do it.

"I want to make one point clear to all of you because it will be one of the few controversial issues in the coming campaign. That is the question of the number of years of high school to be offered at Edison.

"There is nothing in our program which in any way prevents or interferes with a four-year high school at Edison building now or later.

"We are recommending to the voters of Marion district that they invest $2,100,000 in new and improved school buildings.

"That is why our group should not permit this school administration question to becloud the real issue before the voters May 7, which is:

"Marion's need of new and improved school buildings.

"Let us keep in mind that we wouldn't even have a fine Edison school building if our citizens had failed to vote the bonds for it 16 years ago. They did

LEADERS DENY WAR SUMMONS

Marshall and Stark Say They Know Nothing of Dec. 6 Conference.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 9—Gen. George C. Marshall and Adm. Harold R. Stark said today they knew nothing of any attempts to summon them to the White House for a war conference with the late President Roosevelt on the eve of the Pearl Harbor attack.

Both the former Army chief of staff and former chief of naval operations also reiterated before a senate-house committee that they had not seen or been told about a final Japanese diplomatic message until the morning of the attack, Dec. 7, 1941.

Comdr. Lester R. Schulz, on duty at the White House the night of Dec. 6, has testified previously that when 13 parts of the 14-part message were delivered to Mr. Roosevelt that night he exclaimed, "This means war!"

Marshall insisted that he knew nothing of any attempt to reach him until the next morning, when he received a call from the war department that an important message was in and rushed to his office.

Stark, former chief of naval operations, was the first witness as the committee resumed hearings it recessed about a month ago.

Before he began testifying, Seth Richardson, committee counsel, put into the record several documents. These indicated that Winston Churchill pressed Mr. Roosevelt as early as February, 1941, to "instill in Japan anxiety" that a move toward Singapore would mean war with the United States.

Recalled for Quizzing

Stark and Gen. George C. Marshall, former Army chief of staff and now envoy to China, were recalled in an effort to learn their whereabouts the night before the Sunday attack on Pearl Harbor.

Despite testimony by other witnesses that President Roosevelt had tried to locate the chief of naval operations that night and had been informed that he was attending a musical comedy at a local theater, Stark said again he could not remember where he was.

Richardson recalled previous testimony by Comdr. Lester R. Schulz, on duty at the White House that night, that President Roosevelt had exclaimed "This

GROMYKO SAYS HE'LL RETURN TO UN PARLEY

Stiff U. S.-Soviet Fight Over Red Bid for Dismissal Is in Cards.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 9 — Ambassador Andrei A. Gromyko, Russian member to the United Nation's security council, said today that he would attend today's session.

Russia thus ended the boycott which began March 27 when Gromyko walked out on the council's Iranian discussions.

Asked by reporters whether he would attend today's meeting, Gromyko said, "Yes, I shall go."

When asked if he planned to bring up the Iranian matter at today's meeting, however, he replied:

"Ask the president of the security council. He knows what's on the agenda."

Fight in Offing

Russia has filed with the council a demand for complete dismissal of the Iranian case.

Barring one possibility, a stiff Soviet-American fight appears likely to result over this issue. Secretary of State Byrnes indicated the United States is opposed to reopening the Iranian case until May 6, the deadline by which all Soviet troops are supposed to be out of Iran. Some officials said the British hold a similar view.

Iran May Agree

Iran might agree with Russia's demand. Such a development would mean that the two governments most concerned in the controversy considered it a closed book as far as the council goes. That might weaken any argument the United States could make for keeping it open for consideration May 6.

Iranian Ambassador Hussein Ala has asked Premier Ahmed Qavam at Tehran for instructions. News dispatches from Tehran presented apparently conflicting views. One unidentified cabinet member said Qavam would agree to dismissal. But Prince Mozaffar Firouz, Iranian propaganda minister, said it was "entirely a security council matter."

At Ala's hotel, a spokesman said the entire Iranian delegation was packing to leave for Washington some time today. He said Ala would not attend the afternoon meeting of the security council.

The spokesman refused to discuss the situation further.

Polish ambassador Oscar Lange informed Trygve Lie, United Nations secretary general, that within the next few days he would ask that a "situation * * * due to international frictions resulting from the existence and activities of the Franco regime in Spain" be placed on the agenda of the security council.

The polish note followed previous advices from Poland that she would seek to have the United Nations take action against the Spanish government.

The council was scheduled to meet today to pass upon a set of permanent rules by which it may govern its proceedings in the future. United Nations officials said there seemed no question that Gromyko would attend the session—his first since he walked out in protest against discussing the Iranian case two weeks ago.

Whether he would insist upon bringing up the demand for dismissing the Iranian case or wait until tomorrow was uncertain.

Official Version

The official UN English translation of Gromyko's demand, released last night, said Russia and Iran had agreed on a means of settling their affairs, including removal of Soviet troops from Iranian soil. It denied the situation was a menace to international peace and declared that in deciding last week to keep the case on the agenda until May 6 the council took an "incorrent and illegal" action.

"For the above mentioned reasons," the letter said, "the Soviet government insists that the Iranian question should be removed from the agenda of the security council."

The Russian move was unex-

300 Ohio Farmers Set May 1 for Strike To Abolish OPA

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, O., April 9—Some 300 Licking county farmers approved unanimously last night a recommendation for a May 1 farm strike in support of demands that the federal government abolish the Office of Price Administration (OPA).

A mass meeting of growers at nearby Hebron adopted without a dissenting vote a resolution saying:

"Since OPA is a miscarriage of justice and through its mismanagement has created scarcity instead of plenty, and since the politician is determined to give this country cheap food at the expense of the American farmer, we demand its (OPA) abolishment."

Clark Rader of Newark, vice chairman of the Ohio Marketing protest association, said the action gave approval to a May 1 strike date which a meeting of 25 delegates recommended to the State Marketing association here last week.

Rader said strike strategy would call for "100 per cent planting with farmers withholding their produce from the market." He said plans were underway to build additional cribs and sheds to store withheld produce.

Addressing the gathering, Henry H. Packler of Plymouth, chairman of the OMPA, referred to "the sale of beef cattle at above ceiling prices," and asserted:

"The OPA calls that black market, but, folks, that is the American way. We have always aimed to sell our produce and live stock at a little higher price."

Packler called present price control "a five-year Russian plan," and suggested that farmers in protest could "throw their milk on the ground for a while—it won't hurt you."

Fruit Growers in Marion Area Set for Heavy Frost Tonight

Fruit growers in Marion and other Central Ohio areas have received special warnings of heavy frosts from the Columbus weather bureau. The bureau predicts heavy frost in central and northern Ohio tonight.

Local growers believe peaches are likely to be the fruit most vulnerable if the prediction is fulfilled. Cherries and apricots are also possible casualties. Apples and strawberries are not out enough yet to be affected, they said.

G. W. Mindling, Columbus weather man, told the Associated Press the temperature in the vicinity of the capital was expected to drop to 30, and remarked:

"It's pretty likely to be a killing frost if it gets that low."

Clouds Would Help

The development of a film of clouds would prevent the frost, Mindling added, but no such development is in sight for the central and southern sections.

Frank J. Beach, extension horticulturist at Ohio State university, declared that "a heavy frost could do serious damage."

He pointed out that the fruit bloom prospects in Ohio were as good as they ever have been, and without frost damage an excellent crop would be harvested. Ohio's principal fruits are peaches, apples, cherries and grapes.

Beach said that fruit buds just broken could take a minimum of 23 degrees; half open, 25 to 26 degrees; in full blooms, 28 degrees. After the fruit begins to form, 29 to 30 degrees will kill it.

Can Use Smudge Pots

Smudge pots can be used by commercial orchardists to stave off frost damage. For back yard fruit trees in the city, smoke pots may be used or, if the trees are small enough, they may be covered with fabrics, the heavier the better. Newspapers are excellent

PACKERS BLAME OPA FOR BLACK MARKET

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 9—Representatives of major meat packers asserted today the black market in meat is out of control, the price system in the industry has broken down, and the "only remedy" is removal of price controls.

Wesley Hardenbergh, president of the American Meat Institute, led off the attack on OPA policies before the senate agriculture committee and was backed up by other packers from Illinois, Montana and California.

Senator Connally (D-Tex) asked Hardenbergh whether he thought "the consumers would get a fair shake" if congress removed subsidies and abolished price control in the industry. Hardenbergh said he certainly did.

"This industry's very existence is threatened by the wasteful, scandalous, widespread and flagrant black market which has been made possible by the price control act," Hardenbergh asserted.

Council Votes $10 a Month Pay Raises To City Employes

New Wage and Schedules Voted Unanimously; Increases Will Become Effective Immediately.

Council Monday night approved a $10 a month raise to all city employes, with minor deviations and exceptions, effective immediately. Passed as emergency measures, the pay raises will go into effect immediately. All measures were passed unanimously by council.

The raises will cost the city $37,164 a year, or $31,431 in the eight and one-half months left in 1946, according to city officials.

Approximately 265 persons are affected.

Legislation was also passed equalizing vacations among city departments. Departments affected are the hospital and service department. The resolution calls for all employes of these departments to receive one week's vacation with pay if they have a year or more of service after Jan. 1, 1945, or two weeks vacation with pay if they have three years continuous service. Employes of the sewage treatment plant were formerly receiving only one week regardless of time served. City hospital employes will receive two weeks vacation after one year of service. Formerly they received only six or twelve days and made up the extra one or two days.

Hospital Schedule

The new hospital salary schedule reads in part as follows: superintendent $225 a month and $75 a month maintenance; acting superintendent $225; nurse supervisors $170; surgical supervisor $160; head nurses $150; general duty nurses, registered $145, general duty nurses, graduate $140, relief nurses $4.25 a day, a day $90 a month laboratory technician $225, first assistant laboratory technician $160, other laboratory technicians $145, housekeepers $145; clerks $160; maintenance man $205, janitors $150, cooks $165, assistant cooks $125, kitchen help 50 cents an hour.

New Position Created

A new position, first assistant laboratory technician, was provided for in the new pay rates. This was done, Safety-Service Director Uncapher told council, because increasing laboratory work made it desirable to have another graduate laboratory technician in addition to the head laboratory technician.

Pay scales in other city departments were set as follows: clerk of council $1,650 per year, clerk in auditors office $1,650, clerk of municipal court $2,310, deputy clerk of municipal court $1,890; bailiff of municipal court $2,310, director of public service $3,420, city engineer $2,310 superintendent of sewage treatment works $2,490; employes of sewage treatment plant $2,310, chief of fire dept. $2,970; captain in fire dept. $2,490, mechanic in fire dept. $2,490; firemen, first year $167.50 a month, second year $177.50, thereafter $182.50; clerk in garbage dept. $1,650, chief of police $2,970; captain in police dept. $2,490; patrolmen, same as firemen; clerk of traffic violations bureau $1,650; parking meter maintenance man $2,310; first assistant engineer $217.50 a month, clerks in street department $137.50.

Rates for Laborers

New rates for laborers in the city service department are as follows: class A $1.10 an hour, class B 95 cents an hour; class C 85 cents an hour, class D 80 cents an hour; class E 75 cents an hour.

Council also established paydays for city employes after May 1 as the 5th and 20th of the month, or the 4th and 19th, if either of the former fall on Sunday. City pay days were formerly the 2nd and 17th. The change was made to facilitate payroll processing, city officials said.

Council also voted to authorize the Safety-Service Director to lease or rent lands at the new airport site for agricultural purposes. The leases are to expire not later than Dec. 31, 1946. Only preliminary engineering work and no construction will be done at the airport this year, Uncapher told council, and it will be advantageous from the standpoint of keeping down weeds to have the land farmed this year. All rental monies will go into the general fund of the city.

Payment of $20 to Russell P. Houseburg of 247 Ellis court was voted for damages done to his premises by city sewer construction. A sewer was dug across Houseburg's lot and under his garage, depriving him for a period of the use of his garage.

A petition to council from seven landowners near North Main and East Fairground streets requesting that that vicinity be designated a commercial zone was referred to the city planning commission. A change in zone regulations would permit the construction of an automobile sales and service establishment on this corner.

A petition signed by H. D. Miller, general manager of the Marion Grain and Supply Co., requested that the north end of DeWolfe court be vacated. Secretary Byrnes, Boosts Brass Hats, Striped Pants Boys

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 9 — Don't joke to Secretary of State James F. Byrnes about "brass hats" in the armed forces, or the "striped pants boys" of the state department's foreign service.

He thinks they're all right and are getting too much undeserved abuse.

Here are six views as given to the house appropriations committee during hearings on the state department's 1947 supply bill which went to the house floor today:

"I have heard of 'brass hats' and the 'striped pants' boys and 'cookie pushers', and, as a matter of fact, I concluded from my knowledge of the Army that the 'brass hat' ordinarily is the fellow that some member of congress, either of the house or of the senate, appointed to Annapolis or to West Point and that he is no more of a 'brass hat' than the representative or the senator who appointed him . . .

"As to these 'striped pants' fellows, I have to take off my hat to them. I have found that through the years they have been stepchildren in the (diplomatic) service, so far as compensation goes . . . I see in the service no inducement to a young fellow to leave home, enter the service, be sent all over the world * * *. Perhaps he rarely gets a chance to see his family or friends. Because we never see him, we reward him by calling him a 'cookie pusher.' And the fellow himself never has a chance to say anything."

U. S. Weighs Plan To Test Consumer Goods

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 9 — Before long, the national bureau of standards hopes, citizens can complain to the government when their shoes, socks and shirts wear out too quickly.

Bureau requests for $100,000 to develop durability tests for all common materials were disclosed today with publication of testimony of the 1947 commerce department appropriations bill.

Asking the house appropriations committee to approve the fund, G. N. Thompson, chief of the bureau's codes and specifications division, termed his project "pretty homespun" and apologized because it was not as spectacular as the atomic bomb.

"It is concerned," he explained, "with shoes, shirts, stockings, and things of that sort, and with the problem of how the consumer, buying across the counter, can be sure of the quality of the stuff he is getting."

means war," and he made a 12-part Japanese diplomatic message.

Stark testified that he knew nothing about receipt of the message until he went to his office in a routine way the next morning.

"To the best of my knowledge and belief," Stark said, "the President did not call me that night."

What would Stark have done if he had known of the President's attitude, Richardson asked.

"I would have taken action," the gray-haired retired admiral replied firmly. "I would have gone to my office that night, seen my advisers and taken action.

"After any such expression by the President," he added, "I think I would not have rested until I had seen that dispatch."

Rep. Cooper (D-Tenn) recalled that Schulz testified that neither Mr. Roosevelt nor Harry L. Hopkins said anything about Pearl Harbor in discussing the Japanese message. Hopkins, Mr. Roosevelt's close adviser, was with the President that night.

Rep. Murphy (D-Penn) noted there already had been testimony that on one occasion Mr. Roosevelt told top officials that he would not be surprised if war came by December 1, 1941.

Not at White House

Stark told Murray that he was not at the White House the evening of Dec. 7, when Mr. Roosevelt talked with other leaders.

Stark also told Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) he believed there never was any Japanese code message signalling a break with the United States. This has become well known as the "winds code."

The Navy, Stark added, had no "special policy or plan" to take effect on receipt of any message meaning a break in relations or strained relations.

"We had a plan in case of war," Stark said. He described a message of November 27, 1941, to Pacific commanders as "a warning alert against the possibility of war." That covered the situation, he contended, until war actually came.

The documents describing Churchill's actions in 1941 were obtained by Richardson from White House and state department files.

Letter Shows Fears

One document was a message from the then British prime minister to Mr. Roosevelt dated Feb. 15, 1941, expressing concern that "the Japanese mean to make war on us, or to do something which would compel us to make war on them, during the next few weeks or months."

"There are some," Churchill added, "who consider that in Japan's present mood she would have no hesitation to entertain an attempt to make war against both your country and mine. Although it is my personal belief that the odds are definitely against such an event, one cannot tell.

"Whatever you are able to do to instill in Japan anxiety as to a double war may succeed in averting this danger. Nevertheless should we alone be attacked, it would be difficult to overstate the grave character of the consequences."

Five days later another message came from Churchill which said: "Have received better news concerning Japan. It seems Jap foreign minister is shortly going to Moscow, Berlin and Rome for the purpose of covering the failure of action against us. The fear of the U. S. appears to have postponed attack which seemed imminent.

"While completely understanding your situation pending enactment of bill on which our hopes depend, the more these fears can be aroused the better."

Presumably, the bill to which he referred was the lend-lease act, enacted in the spring of 1941.

ARMY-NAVY MERGER BILL MADE PUBLIC

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 9 — Proposed legislation abolishing the present War and Navy departments and establishing a single new "department of common defense" was made public today by the senate military committee.

The measure is intended to carry out President Truman's request for unification of the armed forces.

Drafted after months of closed-door sessions, the bill would raise the Air Forces to equal rank with the Army and Navy and place all three under a single new cabinet member, to be known as the "secretary of common defense."

Actual date for abolition of the present War and Navy departments would be determined by the President.

President Truman was sent the proposed bill last week by Chairman Thomas.

A report accompanying the legislation summarized it this way:

"A single department is created. The air force is given autonomy. Integrated strategic plans and a unified military program and budget are provided for. Civilian control is clearly fixed in a single civilian, subject to the direction of the President. An organization structure is set up which will foster coordination between the military and the remainder of the government. A unified system of training for combined operation for land, sea and air is provided for, under the direction of an assistant secretary. And lastly, within the broad framework established by the bill, there is ample opportunity for such further organization changes and improvements as experience indicates to be necessary or advisable."

Iran Settlement Not To End Feud, Mackenzie Feels

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Russia has made it clear that she expects the United Nations security council to drop consideration of the Soviet-Iranian (Persian) affair on the basis that the matter already has been settled by Moscow and Teheran.

We still have to learn whether the council will comply with this demand or will pursue its original idea of "hear and see," that is of keeping the question on the books until all Russian troops are out of Persia. The United States and Britain in the past have felt that the council should pursue the latter policy.

In any event, even if the adjustment of the current situation is accepted as satisfactory, it would take a most active imagination indeed to regard the commotion that Persia has created as a focal point in the tremendous readjustment of zones of influence which is proceeding in Europe and Asia. Call it power politics if you want to be realistic. The whole world, of course has an interest but Russia and Britain are the powers most deeply affected.

Today, as for decades past, the status of Persia is of vital concern to both Moscow and London, though for different reasons. Naturally when Persia is mentioned you think of oil, and her wealth in petroleum certainly enters into the picture, but of far greater moment is her geographical position which makes her of strategical importance.

An Old Sore Spot

Persia has figured heavily in the long-term policies of Britain and Russia for more than a century. This situation will continue so long as the British empire and the Soviet Union exist in their present forms. By the same token the Persian problem may never be off the books of the United Nations, and it certainly will remain active during the great and delicate readjustment which is now being made in zones of influence.

transportation for a population of 300,000 persons today after an eight-day strike involving about 500 CIO transport workers and 130 AFL machinists.

The bus and trolley operators walked out at midnight March 31, demanding a wage increase of 32 cents an hour and other concessions in a new contract with the Akron Transportation Co. The machinists, who maintain the vehicles, threatened a strike of their own for 32½ cents an hour.

Late yesterday the transport workers voted unanimously to accept a compromise wage increase of 12 cents an hour and at a meeting last night the machinists voted 47 to 32 to accept an agreement incorporating the 12-cent hourly raise. Under the previous contracts the transport workers received 98 cents an hour and the machinists $1.05.

During the walkout major rubber concerns reported absenteeism was no greater than normal, but school attendance was down slightly.

insulation, especially for strawberry beds.

Fruit growers along Lake Erie are fortunate. Beach said, in that the temperature of the lake helps to protect the budding trees several miles inland.

Trees on sloping ground are less vulnerable to frost, because the cold air flows downward. But trees in valleys are in serious danger, because the cold air drops there and remains.

Dale Lawrence of near Marion said he believed temperatures would have to fall below 25 degrees to cause any damage. He bases his belief on a theory recently developed at Ohio State university that in continual cold weather, growing plants acclimate themselves. Since the last several nights have been cool without much rain, he believes the plants will pull through.

RAIL FACT-FINDERS START NEW PARLEYS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 9—A presidential emergency fact-finding panel yesterday completed public hearings on wage increase and rule revision demands of the railway brotherhoods, which in a month ago threatened a nationwide railroad tie-up.

The panel began its hearings March 18. It had been named by President Truman when the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and Locomotive Engineers called a strike for March 11.

The strike was called off after three pending hearings of the board.

The unions asked for a 25 per cent wage increase, with a minimum $2.50 day, a 40 hour week, and revision of 44 working rules. During the hearings carriers proposed 29 rules changes of their own.

Three closed sessions will be held today, the first with brotherhood representatives, followed by a meeting with carrier delegates.

Representatives of both groups met with the three-man panel before it goes into executive session to deliberate the voluminous testimony.

The report must be presented to President Truman by April 20. Chairman Erickson said the panel has tentatively set a goal of April 18 for release of the report in Washington.

Ray T. Miller, brotherhoods counsel, in final rebuttal, pleaded with the board not to be bound by decisions of other railway emergency panels or arbitration boards in ruling on demands of the unions, representing 250,000 railroad employes.

He asserted there was no authority controlling the board in its decision and that any emergency board "can make its own opinion" in recommendations for the proposed wage increases and rule revisions.

Boyle in Rome but Wouldn't Do As Romans Do

(Hal Boyle's Associated Press column today is in the form of a letter to his wife, Frances.)

Rome, April 9—Dear Frances:

Well here I am in this place where you are supposed to do as the Romans do.

I don't know whether to build a statue or try to sell something on the black market But that's what the Romans seem to be doing mostly.

What a wonderful place this would be to start a scrap metal drive! I never saw so many statues and monuments in my life. They certainly must have a strong sculptors union to get so many contracts. There is a statue to everybody but Mussolini and the street-sweepers.

Hal Boyle

The clothing shortage is reflected in the statues. All over town you see lovely nude bronze and cast iron ladies riotously squirting water through their teeth, wrestling with fishes and holding up stone porches After walking around among these undressed nymphs you get the slightly insane feeling you ought to step up and help shoulder a parch

Black Market Motif

I have thought up a design in case they ever build a monument to Italy's newest national industry—the black market. It would consist of a number of men of heroic stature standing in a circle, each with his oversized hand in the next man's pocket.

There is no end or beginning to the black market here. It affects all classes and there is little moral feeling about it. We ran into it as soon as we arrived by air from Athens on TWA's inaugural flight. Before we left the airfield several shady characters sidled up to ask "Anything you want to sell, Joe'" or "Want some money changed, Joe'"

These petty chiselers will buy and sell anything from a derby hat to a leaky fountain pen, though most of the business seems to be in food and cigarettes American troops can dispose of extra cigarettes at better than a dollar per pack So the soldier who doesn't smoke but draws his cigarette rations, can peddle them and add about 40 bucks to his monthly income.

Luxury goods are plentiful and food stores look well stocked, at least in the better neighborhoods. But high prices bear heavily on the low income classes who certainly aren't wearing out their toothpicks from over eating.

Street beggars are numerous One little smudgefaced girl in a tattered dress slipped a typewritten note in my hand reading, "Gentle sir, I am in want and have no father or mother. Will you not succor a helpless orphan."

I started to give her some money but just then a big blonde woman rushed out from her shop and belted my career "orphan" on her ear

My phoney little friend made a very ugly face at the lady and then skipped away looking for another "gentle sir."

Your loving husband.
Harold Vereinglueren Boyle.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDENSEN, M.D.

Backache

The human body is intricately and marvelously made which is, of course, one reason why it may develop so many ailments From one point of view, its wondrous complexity and specialization of parts simply means that it has a lot of things to get out of kilter

Suppose, for instance, there is some injury to its "shock absorbers," the little pieces of cartilage which lie between the small bones of the spine and act as cushions to protect against jarring.

These bits of cartilage, called intervertebral disks, are small, and they serve a most useful purpose, but if they are injured you are going to have trouble

There are certain injuries to the intervertebral disks which, in turn, produce pain in the lower part of the back At times the pain passes downward into the leg This is known as sciatica

At other times, a part of the disk herniates or ruptures. The type of injury which has occurred to the disk will determine to some extent the type of symptoms that develop. For example, according to Dr. James H. Young of Australia, a herniation of the disk will cause compression or pressure symptoms When this happens it will be found that the spine bends away from the affected side.

If a person stands up and bends forward the pain is made worse, while if he is seated and bends forward the pain becomes less. Bending backward or toward the affected side increases the pain.

As a result of bending or lifting too heavy an object, rupture of the disk may occur. This causes symptoms called the stretch syndrome In such cases, bending over while standing makes the pain worse as does bending over while sitting down. However, bending backward does not cause pain.

Sometimes there may be degeneration or wasting of one of the disks In such cases bending over while standing makes the pain worse but bending backward or bending forward when sitting down is painless

In order to tell when injury to the intervertebral disks has occurred, an X-ray of the spine is taken. An examination to determine if there is tenderness along the spine or to find if the vertebrae or small bones in the spine move too freely will also help in the diagnosis.

In case of a hernia of a disk surgical repair of the disk is usually necessary Now and then, the part of the disk which has gotten out of position may go back in place by itself

Tearing of the disk is treated by using a spinal brace to keep the part immovable However, in some cases the tearing of the disk may be so extensive that an operation is required

When there is degeneration or wasting the wearing of a cast or brace for awhile may relieve the symptoms If this fails, an operation is done in which the vertebrae between which the disk is located are ankylosed that is fixed together so that they are not movable

When pain in the back and sciatica occur, a careful study, including X-rays of the spine, should be carried out to determine if damage to the intervertebral disks may not be responsible.

Six Games Already Booked; New Bloomington First Foe

Only Two Spots and Mound Staff Undecided; Trackmen Book Meet with Richwood.

By JIM DARBY

After one week of practice, all [illegible] and the pitching staff are open on Harding's mound, Coach W. T. Wray reports. Six games have been booked and more are being lined up for the opener set for April 15.

Coach Wray said that of the eight boys trying out for pitcher as experts to take four of them as the only regulars. The remaining four will be used as relief pitchers.

Right field and first base are the two open. Zeigler, Cunningham and Hickman are fighting for the first sacker's job and Coach Wray said he may use an [illegible] pitcher at right field.

The Lineup So Far

The starting lineup as now determined is Wesler at second, Hall at third, Brown at shortstop, Taylor and Andrews in the outfield. Lee will be first base catcher with Pollard holding him up.

Some of the games may be played in Lincoln Park if the baseball does not interfere with the Marion Cardinals. A baseball diamond is being laid out in the northeast corner of Harding stadium and will probably be ready for some of the later games.

The six games already scheduled are April 15 New Bloomington; April 20 at Bucyrus; April 26 at New Bloomington; May 6 Richwood; May 9 Bucyrus; May 13 Richwood.

Additional games which may be booked will be fitted into this schedule. No games are expected to be played after May 15.

Richwood Meet Set

Plans are being made for Harding's first practice track meet with Richwood. It will be held here either the last of next week or during the last week in April. A practice meet at Bucyrus has been scheduled for May 1.

Owing to unfavorable weather, [illegible] last week's practice drills were limited to strenuous running exercises and some of the footwork in the box put.

Ralph Simpson, Central Junior High mound teacher has been assisting Coach George Nemitz. Simpson was an outstanding hurler and pitcher in the college ranks.

Attempts are now being made to schedule meets with Upper Sandusky, Galion, Delaware, Kenton and Mansfield. No definite arrangements have been completed with these schools.

ZOLLNERS WIN CROWN

CHICAGO, April 9—Player-coach Bob McDermott led his Fort Wayne Zollners, world professional basketball champions, to their third straight world title last night, defeating the Oshkosh, Wis., All-Stars, 72 to 57, in the final game of the best two-of-three championship series.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 9—What do you think of 178-pound heavyweights? says Col. Harold Miller, ex-president and current executive secretary of the National Boxing association and boxing coach and publicity man at the University of Maryland. He must take off from the record Rocky Graziano-Marty Servo mix-match on the theme that "we got equality in the very cause of our boys." The 178-pounder against someone weighing, say, 250, emphasizes the difference a few pounds can make when two good scrappers come together. Miller suggests a 185-pound class might be in order—and that's just how the present light-heavyweight division was created. Well say maybe 180 or 195 would be a better dividing line. As for the lower divisions, Harold has his own answer to what happens there: "The beef with sportsmanship and weight equality at the gate is big" and the little guy who puts a beating for the big money is the first to say it.

Hunky Haines, the old Penn State, Giant footballer and Yankee baseball player, will be back as a National Football league official next fall. Van Mungo is said to be heeling at Mel Ott because he was yanked from an exhibition game after Lou Boudreau hit a homer with the bases full. Maybe both should think of Lee Fohl, who was bounced as Cleveland manager because of one such pitch. Lee let Fred Coumbe, who was suffering from tonsilitis, pitch to Babe Ruth one day in 1919. The Babe socked one out of the park and that night Fohl went out as manager.

TRIBE CALLS GROMEK TO CUT DOWN GIANTS

Indians Blanked 7-0 as Embree Loses Control.

By The Associated Press

DANVILLE, Va., April 9—Steve Gromek, ace of "Big Four" of the Cleveland pitching staff, was selected for mound duty in an effort to stop the New York Giants today as the two clubs resumed their spring training duels.

The Braves suffered their first loss of the series yesterday when they went down, 7 to 2, in a game called in the last of the fifth by rain.

Lacking control, Red Embree of Cleveland was pounded for 11 runs, with the Giants scoring four of their runs in the final frame. Bill Voiselle held the Indians to two hits—singles by Manager Lou Boudreau and outfielder Gene Woodling.

The Giant victory left Cleveland holding a 2 to 1 edge in the series.

Reds and Bosox Play Benefit Tilt

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 9—Big league baseball came to this city noted for its horse racing today as the northbound Boston Red Sox and the Cincinnati Reds stopped for an exhibition game to benefit the Lexington milk fund.

At Louisville yesterday, the Red Sox trimmed the National leagues, 3-2 and 2-0, for their ninth and tenth wins of the two clubs 16 meetings in Florida and enroute to home parks.

Bobby Doerr was the Sox big gun in yesterday's first game, featuring regulars of both squads. The hard-hitting second baseman accounted for all three runs.

In the seven-inning nightcap between reserve players, the Red Sox failed to get to second safely as they were chased by five scattered hits by Mel Deutsch.

Rich Santa Anita Meet to Put Harness Racing in Big Time

By BILL BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

ARCADIA, Calif., April 9—Harness racing, the delight of county fairs, goes big time next Tuesday, April 16, with the opening of the 25-day Santa Anita Grand Circuit meeting.

Nearly 700 top pacers and trotters from 32 states and four Canadian provinces, plus most of the leading trainers and drivers, are here, preparing for the assault on $400,000 total purses.

The money-laden Western Harness Racing association, comprising movie makers and southern California industrialists, is set to launch a golden era that may bring sail-racing up to running races in popularity with the wagering public.

Aimed at $2 Man

The new brand of harness racing is aimed directly at the $2 better who, close observers figure, will have to chunk it in the par-mutuels at the rate of $400,000 daily for the meet to make money. To encourage the horse-player, the harness officials have banned heats and introduced a rolling starting gate which will be used for all races except handicaps.

The two richest races in harness annals will be offered in the $50,000 trotting derby May 11 and the $50,000 pacing derby May 18.

The daily card will include eight races, ranging from five furlongs to a mile and over.

Indicating long-range intentions, the Western association has taken 20-year leases on both Santa Anita and Hollywood Park.

Retaining annual meetings at the two tracks.

Bucyrus Man Puts Eight Horses in Races

Among the Santa Anita entries are five pacers and three trotters owned by W. J. Michael of Bucyrus. The pacers are Attorney, Walnut Law, Little Charlie, Scotch Mary and Miss Belle Course. The trotters entered are Eva's Boy, Forward Abbey and Scotch Dillon. Eva's Boy is considered a favorite.

All of Michael's horses are also entered in various stake races at the Little Grand Circuit meet at the local fairground June 15 to July 5.

Outstanding horses here include trotters Aspers, Blue Boy, Eva's Boy, Errol Hanover, Kaola, Little Toughy and Spengay; and pacers Adios, 1945 champion, Brown Prince, Gus H., Canadian Ace, Kings Counsel and Ensign Hanover.

Leading trainers and riders include Sep Palin, Indianapolis, Frank Ervin, Aiken, S. C.; Harry Fitzpatrick, Springfield, Ill., Carl Haltenich, Pinehurst, N. C.; Wayne Smart, Delaware, O., and George Loomis, 85, of Morris Mane, the oldest active harness horseman in the U. S.

Truancy Charge Bars Delaware Fighter As AAU Battles Open

Charles Moore of Delaware, state Golden Glove lightweight champ, was unable to enter the national AAU championship boxing tournament at Boston which began yesterday. The colored fighter who won the district Golden championship here at Marion and went on to take state honors at Columbus ran into truancy trouble.

School authorities at Delaware's Willis High school, where Moore is enrolled, felt his boxing activities were interfering with his school work and Carl Hopkins, principal, filed a truancy complaint against him in Judge H. D. House's juvenile court. At a session in the court with Moore's parents and the school officials, the charges were dropped on condition that he return to school and withdraw from the Boston tournament.

At Boston a field of 172 fighters were carded. Only 131 were able to fight yesterday, the first day, in a session that lasted 11 hours.

A session equally as long, with some fighters possibly fighting three times, will be necessary today if the meet is to be completed on schedule.

Four Ohio fighters Bob Bell, Peter Megas and Ted Pittapoldi of Cleveland and Wallace Smith of Cincinnati won last night. Bell outpointed Charlie Peabeasy of Oklahoma City in the 118-pound class. Megas decisioned Bobby Tate of Des Moines, Ia., in a 126-pound match. Pittapoldi outboxed Paul Williams of Carson City, Nev., in the 122-pound division and Wally Smith KO'd Jimmy Zaicca of Baltimore in the second round of their 118-pound go.

Three other Ohioans lost. Don Keeling of Cincinnati lost a 126-pound fray to Floyd Perry of Kansas City. John Holliday of Cincinnati was decisioned by John Arrundi of Washington in a 112-pounder, and Chris Tabor lost a 160-pound trial to Harold Anspach of Cherry, N. C.

DAYTON SIGNS TWINS AT BASEBALL SCHOOL

Other OSL Teams Schedule Tryout Sessions.

Dayton's Indians have signed a pair of identical twins for the season, according to the Dayton Daily News. They are Carroll and Farrell Burton signed as the result of their performance at the baseball school and tryout sessions at Dayton's Hudson field last week.

Both stand six feet tall, weigh 175 pounds and bat and throw righthanded. Both served in the Navy until recently as pharmacist mates. Farrell notes down the third sack and Carroll is a catcher.

The tryout school held "graduation" exercises in the form of a nine-square game Sunday. Fourteen of the 121 boys who reported for tryouts were given contracts.

Tryout schools are being held at several of the Ohio State league parks. The Middletown Reds have one scheduled for Saturday and Sunday. Zanesville's Dodgers will start a school Monday and continue with it until opening day.

Newark Moundsmen, Springfield Giants and Lima Terriers are all counting on filling their rosters with boys reporting at home tryout schools.

OWEN SNUBS MEXICO, BUT RICKEY IS COOL

Mickey Finds Dodgers Still in Mood To Sell Him.

By The Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 9—Mickey Owen, roving Dodger catcher, was headed back toward Brooklyn today after a stormy flirtation with the Mexican Baseball League.

Sayres is expected to report the Dodgers in 10 days. Owen and his wife left San Antonio by automobile yesterday following announcement that he had turned down an offer to join the south-of-the-border league.

The catcher's quest for greener pastures wound up in a conference here with Alfonso Pasquel, one of five brothers who operate the Mexican league over an offer to become player-manager for the Torreon club.

Owen said he had talked by telephone with Branch Rickey, Brooklyn president. The player is still under contract to the Dodgers for half a season.

At Nashville, Tenn., Harold Parrott, traveling secretary for the Dodgers, announced last night that Rickey hasn't changed his mind about Owen and still plans to sell or trade him.

The day after the catcher said he was going with the Mexican league Rickey said: "Owen will never play with the Brooklyn club again." If he doesn't decide to go to Mexico he will either be sold or traded. He will not be signed for a salary more than his contract called for when he entered service.

Owen is reported to have received $12,500 a year from the Dodgers.

New School Plan Approved

... then—we must do our ...

... itself up as the "watch-... the school program the ... Planning Group adopted a ... offered by Ben T. Wiant. ... Wiant said people of Mar... entitled to assurance that ... program will be carried ... as planned. It was ... out at the meeting that ... board of education cannot ... bind a subsequent board ... actions.

The resolution was designed to ... continuity for the school ... even though membership ... board of education changes ... the program is completed.

The resolution, unanimously ... reads as follows:

PLEDGE OF FULFILLMENT

WHEREAS, we, the Marion Civic ... Group, have promoted ... endorsed a certain school ... improvement program, ... have recommended to the ... of Marion that they vote ... necessary bond issue at ... forthcoming primary election, ...

WHEREAS, it becomes our duty ... all within our power to ... that that program shall ... carried out as proposed, now ... therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED, that we, ... Marion Civic Planning ... do hereby determine and ... that we shall continue our ... in existence, and ... we shall continue to counsel ... advise, and use our influ... ence, to the end that the proposed school building program be fully and satisfactorily carried out.

Mr. Wiant also offered a motion, which was adopted, instructing the secretary of the Planning Group to request the board of education to place in its minutes details of the program as approved last night.

Committee Report

Chairman of a number of committees working on the school program gave reports on their activities.

Robert Bush reported on the activities of the veterans committee, which has been active in getting veterans to register with the board of elections. An intensive campaign has been conducted with excellent results, he reported. Mr. Bush also expressed the opinion that at least 90 per cent of the Marion veterans who go to the polls May 7 will favor the school bond issue.

B. Peterson, chairman of the promotion committee, reported on plans for acquainting school district voters with the salient facts of the program.

E. Paul Bachman, finance committee chairman, reported that approximately $4,000 would be needed to conduct the campaign before the primaries and that the Planning Group treasury now has $1,800 on hand.

School Pupils To Help

School Supt. E. E. Holt reported on proposed participation of school pupils in the campaign. Pupils of the junior and senior high schools are intensely interested and will make a contribution toward the campaign in behalf of the bond issue. All pupil activities, however, will be outside of school hours, he said.

"The pupils realize that they wasted their efforts in staging a spontaneous demonstration last fall after the defeat of the school bond issue. They are determined this year to make their efforts count," he said.

In opening the meeting Co-chairman Oiler declared he believed the program was the best that could be devised for improving Marion's school buildings.

He pointed to the advisability of passing the bond issue now, saying that if it is defeated again this spring it is likely to be a long time before any group can be brought together to sponsor another similar effort.

Mr. Oiler opened the meeting to general discussion of the Marion school problem.

An interesting sidelight was added by D. H. Howard, president of the Huber Manufacturing Co. He told the group of his observation of the school facilities in Phoenix and other Arizona communities. "There is nothing in Marion that can match the modern buildings and facilities offered by the western state," he said. Even though the state has a small population and a low tax valuation, excellent schools are provided without any hardship on the taxpayers," Mr. Howard said.

Mr. Bray discussed the advisability of providing money for the program now through sale of the bonds at the present low interest rates. "The program itself," he said, might take three to seven years to complete. But if we have the plans drawn and ready and the money available we will be able to go ahead when building conditions are more favorable. If a slackening of industrial activity comes to Marion it will be a fine thing to have this building program as a backlog against unemployment," he declared.

Marion Audience Greets Ballet Presentation with Enthusiasm

By ELAINE BALLINGER

A near-capacity crowd filled the Palace theater here last night to witness a program of ballet, form of entertainment comparatively new in Marion, and, comments heard here and there gave the definite idea that Marion liked it.

The Foxhole Ballet, brought to Marion as the third and final presentation of the community Concert association season, played to an audience made up not only of members of the association, but guests, and out-of-town ticket holders, with a generous sprinkling of ex-servicemen and some in uniform who did not have opportunity to attend other concerts of the year.

An enthusiastic reception was accorded "the ballet our soldiers cheered" by the Marion audience which expressed in effect, a like feeling with the GI audiences played to by this company of dramatic dancers overseas. If this is ballet, I'm for it!" Applause was not held back, and in one particularly well-liked number, spontaneous clapping broke out in the middle of the scene. The response was gratifying to Grant Mouradoff and his troupe of artists. When questioned about the Marion audience reaction, his reply was, "Good."

From the first dance dramatization, the crowd was put in the mood by the dancers by their appeal aimed directly at audience approval. They were playing for the audience, not merely expressing a form of art for artistry's sake, and by this apparent "we hope you like us" coquetry here and there, won response to their artistic workmanship, grace, agility and ease of movement, as well as to the personality of the group and its individual members. The pianists were equally well received in their turn. Exquisite costumes, basic and simple though effective setting, and some light effects, added to the enjoyment of the whole, and to the gala atmosphere.

Two Parts of Program

Divided into two parts, the program carried dance scenes for all five artists, Rosa Rolland, Sonia Woicikowska, Betty Burge, Virginia Richardson and Mr. Mouradoff, in the first part, with a group of numbers by the pianists, Victoria Crandall and Moreland Kortcamp. The second part featured pieces for Woicikowska and Mouradoff, then for Rolland, Richardson, Mouradoff and Woicikowska individually, another group by the pianists and the final "Circus" which included all. Music was that of such famed composers as Brahms, Dvorak and Tschaikowsky, as well as more contemporary composers, and one composition was by Miss Crandall, one of the ballet's accompanists.

As a sidelight, it was learned that one of the original Foxhole Ballet dancers who was with the team overseas. Tatiana Semenova, had suffered a knee injury in New York a short time before the troupe was to make the appearance here, and Miss Holland was called in. She had but three days of practice with the rest of the group. Also a veteran of an overseas tour, she had danced with another company for soldier audiences. An injury to Miss Burge's foot caused a change in the program which omitted her solo dance, but she was able to take part in the number in which all appeared.

First Number

First on the repertoire last night was "Century Bouquet," with music by Brahms, its name derived from the "date" of the scene which was set in a New England drawing room in 1845. The situation, Stephen, suitor of Helena, captivated by the beauty of Angela, her sister, and Angela in turn attracted to Stephen, caused Helena to be overcome by jealousy at first. Finally, thoughtfulness of her sister's happiness caused her to disregard her own sentiments and enter wholeheartedly into the festivities. The four sisters of the family, and the suitor were in costumes reminiscent of the period of dress a hundred years ago.

The piano group of the first part of the program included "Titmo," Infante; "Pavane," Ravel, arranged by Wolfes; and "Ritual Fire Dance," DeFalla, which was particularly well received by the audience. Miss Crandall and Miss Kortkamp played easily together and with charm of manner.

"A Czech Village" was a scene in a village of Czechoslovakia at the close of day when it is the custom for the villagers to participate in their national games and dances. Dressed in bright costumes of the country, the dancers showed particularly in this piece their skill in a "sitting down" dance which they executed at a lively "pace." Music was by Dvorak.

Following intermission the duet and solo dances were presented, entitled generally, "Divertissements." "Grand Pas de Deux" from "Swan Lake," Tschaikowsky, danced by Woicikowska and Mouradoff, included "Adagio," "Variation," "Variation" and "Coda." A section of the third act of the ballet "Swan Lake," from a technical standpoint, it is considered "one of the most difficult episodes in ballet literature," and is in the traditional and classical ballet form.

"Andalusia," danced by Rolland, was a "Spanish senorita" number in shining white satin costume with accents of red, the dancing accompanied by Miss Rolland's lively handling of castanets.

Miss Richardson presented "Anticipation," an exemplification of a psychological mood.

Chinese Ribbon Dance

Perhaps most laden with "atmosphere" was the "Chinese Ribbon" dance by Mouradoff for which oriental mood was created by the music which was composed by Miss Crandall, and the blueish shadowy lightning which was the background for the dance. In richly embroidered Chinese costume, the dancer executed manipulation of ribbon which appeared to be blue wraiths of smoke directed fantastically in an ancient Chinese ritual.

A Polish dance, "Kuyawiak," typical of the folk dances of that country, was done by Woicikowska in native dress with expert display of saucy enjoyment.

"Saramouche Suite" by Milhaud, was the piano group done for the second part of the program. "Vif," "Modere" and "Brazileria" were in contrasting tempo, and were received with applause which brought an encore of "Donkey Serenade," Friml, described by Miss Kortkamp as "the favorite of GI's."

The final number, "Circus," music by Charles Magnan, had as a background a "prop" of fanciful horses and clown carried in gala procession by the circus troupe who each then presented a solo version of the bareback rider, tightrope walker, fortune teller, animal tamer and clown.

From Marion the dancers were to go to Youngstown, then to Columbus and on to completion of a 93-cities tour which they began in November after returning to this country from overseas.

A program enclosure expressed the appreciation of the concert series sponsors for the support given the season's offering, and also announced the forthcoming drive for next year's series which opens April 22 and continues through April 27. Mrs. Harold K. Mouser is chairman and Mrs. Karl W. Schell, assistant chairman for the campaign.

STOCK LEADERS PUSH AHEAD IN TRADING

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 9 — Leading stocks generally pushed ahead in today's market although volume of dealings was moderate, and some issues failed to participate in the move.

Steels, motors, heavy equipment and building shares advanced after a fairly active opening, and rails joined the upturn later. Near the fourth hour gains of fractions to more than a point were in the majority.

Brokers said some buying was based on the government's easing of price controls on a number of heavy machinery and equipment items, and on expectations of further wage-price adjustments.

Congresswomen Seek Living Cost Lowdown

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 9 — It disturbs Democrats. It rifles Republicans. It worries everybody else.

What is this universal evil? Why, that old public problem Number One—the cost-of-living.

Two congresswomen, one of each political variety, think it's high time congress bestirred itself about the problem.

Rep Chase Going Woodhouse, Connecticut Democrat, and Rep Margaret Chase Smith, Maine Republican, are authors of identical resolutions asking (1) a special, cost-of-living committee and (2) an investigation of the whole, unhappy business.

Mrs Smith says cost-of-living has risen between four and 35 per cent—depending on which expert you believe.

And Mrs. Woodhouse thinks papa who pays and pays would make the prize witness of all.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

DICK sent a caution after the departing trio before the door closed.

"Better get Mary out into the hall before you introduce the new nurse," he said. "Otherwise her screech of surprise may awake Mother."

Faith stopped her murmured little paean of joy in her miniature nurse's costume to send back a ridiculously assuring reply.

Will Attend to Everything

"No, that wouldn't be so good," she said. 'But don't worry! Aunt Katherine and the doctor and I will attend to everything."

Then the door closed after them, and Dicky bent to his knees in laughter in which I joined.

"Kind of her to include the others," Faith's delighted father said, when he could speak.

"Yes, wasn't it?" I agreed, as I wiped my eyes. "But however do you suppose Katharine managed that costume?"

"Well, you'll know in another minute or two," Dicky said. "But of course you didn't do all that finagling just to hear about the costume. It sure turned the trick, though. The luncheon problem concerning Faith is solved."

"But not for Mary," I said despondently.

"And that's why you wanted Katharine and Jack to come back," he said patiently. "You wanted to tell them about what Mary's going up against."

To Ask Them

"Not only to tell them, but to ask them, especially Katharine," I said. "She generally has some idea in her head to which it's worthwhile to listen."

"Granted," Dicky said, "but don't pin your hopes too high. For my own part, I don't see that there's a blasted thing any one of us can do to help Mary. She'll have to play her own hand. But now that she's forewarned—forearmed as it were—I'm backing her all the way."

I shook my head doubtfully.

"It's going to be a most trying situation," I said. "I'm sure Mary could take it sitting down if it weren't for Noel—and Roderick."

"What about me?" Dicky declared belligerently. "I'm her uncle, and I'll be darned if she has to take anything sitting down! I'll slap Olina's face myself if she gets too fresh!"

Just the Right Note

"And that would provide just the note necessary," I told him with fine disdain. "I really believe you could restrain yourself, however, but I'm not so sure about Noel and Roderick."

"It's a mess, anyway you look at it," Dicky said, and Jack voice spoke from the doorway.

"I hope we don't intrude," he gibed, snapping an imaginary hat brim with his uplifted hand and grinning at us. "Katharine left the door unlatched, and said it was all right for us to come in, but if the confab's secret we can go right out again."

"It isn't secret at all," I assured them. "Indeed, we want to ask your advice about the thing we were discussing. But, first, tell us how you ever managed that nurse's outfit for Faith. Incidentally, you didn't need to have a single doubt about it's being a fool-proof scheme."

"It sure worked a thousand percent," Dicky agreed. "But we're both dying of curiosity, so sit down and give."

Very Simple

"It's very simple," Katharine said. "I spilled some stuff on a new uniform which spoiled it for my wearing. But there was plenty of material left to make Faith one good uniform and another makeshift one to wear while the better one was being laundered.

"I know how she loves to dramatize her play," she went on, and again I recognized the keen insight into my small daughter's mental processes which she possesses, "and I thought the uniforms would make a nice Christmas present for her. So I've been at work on them in my spare moments ever since the accident to the uniform."

"With all the work piled up on you at the hospital!" I said with affectionate reproach.

"Do you know of any better recreation for me than making darling little Faith a Christmas present?" she retorted.

Accompanying the group will be the faculty members, their husbands and wives and the board of education members and their wives.

The party will go to Delaware by bus Friday afternoon where they will board a train for Cincinnati. Senior class colors and favors will mark the places for a banquet enroute and senior and junior girls will have corsages of carnations. Headquarters will be at the Netherlands Plaza and entertainment will include visits to WLW radio station, a tour of some of the large buildings and industries, luncheon, a visit to the large department stores, dinner, and the WLW "hayride party" on Saturday. Attending church, a boat ride, visits to the Eden conservatory, zoo, and other points of interest and a sightseeing tour of the city will make up the Sunday program.

Mary Martha Class Hears Miss Lydia Ebel

At a meeting of the Mary Martha class of Salem Evangelical and Reformed church Thursday night, Miss Lydia Ebel, teacher of week-day religious education in the public schools, was speaker. Mrs. Irving Dutt was hostess for the meeting in her home on South Grand avenue. Miss Ebel's message for the opening meditation was a story based on the Bible passage in which Jesus opened the blind eyes of Bartimaeus. Comments included the observations that "Just as He is able to restore physical sight, He is also able to restore spiritual sight to each one of us, and we are reminded to pray for this blessing during the Lenten season and thus more fully receive a richer Easter blessing."

Mrs. Florence Caldwell conducted devotions and Miss Kathryn Lusch presided for business. Reports of committees were given including announcement of plans fully made for an Easter sunrise service. Breakfast will follow the service. A sale of articles, to be applied to a feature of a future class meeting, was held. In May, a class meeting will be held in the church basement and will be a potluck honoring members' birthdays, it was announced.

Guests were Mrs. Randolph Anthony, Mrs. Fred Rech, Mrs. Floyd Lytle and Mrs. H. Dutt. In contests, honors went to Mrs. G. Harraman, Mrs. E. Rech, and Mrs. Arlie Porter. Mrs. Henry Dutt and Miss Charlotte Dutt assisted the hostess in serving.

COUNTY TAKES OVER 8 MILES OF HIGHWAY

Roads Transferred from Trustees to Commissioners.

Marion county commissioners announced today the transfer of nearly eight miles of township roads to the county.

The transfer was made in a resolution passed by commissioners at request from township boards. Trustees and commissioners and their townships but on Bellaire for painting the roads and asked they be taken over and maintained by the county.

All the roads have now been surfaced, according to Walter W. Johnson, Marion county engineer. The transfer included 41,880 feet, or approximately 7.9 miles of highway.

Roads included in the transfer are in Salisbury, Claridon, the Waldo-Prospect road and the Williams road; Richland and Pleasant, the Newman-Carlisle road; Waldo, the Prospect-Mt. Vernon road; Montgomery, the Agosta-Meeker road; Green County, the Iberia road.

The cost of Macadamizing is the most factor in all Cases.

ENGINEERS HEAR TALK ON NEW STRAIN GAUGE

Baldwin Locomotive Representative Speaks at Meeting.

Members of the Marion chapter of the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers held a dinner meeting in Hotel Harding last night with guests from Marion, Morrow, Union and Delaware counties present.

Speaker was C. H. Gibbons, representative of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. Gibbons discussed use of the SR-4 strain gauge, an instrument used to measure stress and strain of heavy equipment. The gauge is used in road weighing, torque measurement, pressure research and displacement, and is an aid in measuring earthquake stress in elevated structures, stress in welded steel bridge, airplane landing gears and numerous other structures.

The talk was particularly informative to engineers from the Marion Power Shovel Co., because the company recently purchased an SR-4 gauge which it is now using at its plant.

A short business meeting, conducted by Guy Knisely, president of the Marion society, preceded the address.

Milligan To Speak in Marion Tonight

FRED J. MILLIGAN

About 300 persons are expected at an open forum and rally of the Marion County Republican Women's club, to be held tonight at 8:00 p. m. at Republican headquarters.

Speaker for the program will be Fred J. Milligan, candidate for lieutenant governor on the primaries, May 7, and special guests will be the candidates, city and county officials and their families.

Mr. Milligan, a former resident of Wyandot county, is a veteran of World War II and was assistant attorney general under former Governor Brouse. ATOM BOMB EXPERTS HIT QUAKE THEORY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 2—The task force thinks the professor worries overmuch about the earth convulsing possibilities of the atom bomb.

Two of the atom test force experts were asked today about a statement by H. S. Uhler, professor emeritus of physics at Yale university, that the selection of Bikini atoll as the site for the test was "an ill-advised choice" because it might set off a chain of earthquakes of disastrous magnitude. Dr. Uhler expressed his fears in a letter to the New York Times.

He suggested the bomb explosion might crack the crust under the floor of the Pacific, letting in sea water which, coming in contact with volcanic heat, could touch off a chain of earthquakes sufficient to upset the stability of the earth on its axis and distort its shape. Such a chain earthquake could generate a tidal wave a mile or more high, the professor theorized.

Rear Adm. W. S. Parsons, a deputy director of the joint Army-Navy task force, and Comdr. Roger Revelle, oceanographer and advisor to the force, were asked by reporters about Uhler's theory. The produced records and figures on earthquakes, submarine geography and big explosions to show why they believe there is no ground for worry.

Mrs. Foster Honored by Presbyterian Group

Mrs. A. J. Foster was honored Thursday night by teachers of the Junior department of First Presbyterian church at the home of Mrs. George Haines at 132 West Walnut street. She resigned recently as superintendent of that department, having served in the department ten years. The group presented her a gift. A potluck supper was held, and a discussion was conducted on plans for the department. Miss Madeline Wynn, director of religious education, talked on Junior work. Present besides Mrs. Foster, the hostess, and Miss Wynn, were Mrs. Alfred Exton, Mrs. Harry Evans, Mrs. George Setterfield, Mrs. Wayne Jenkins and Miss Gertrude Haberman. Mrs. John Gillis is also a teacher of the Junior department.

Donahey Rites Set Thursday

the post in 1928, saying he wanted no give others a chance."

Then he went into political retirement, not to emerge until 1934. When he quit temporarily seeking votes, he went into the insurance business. His friends finally persuaded him to seek a place on the U. S. senate.

"Buckeye Vic" downed the political war paint in the 1934 primary to face former Gov. George White and Congressman Charles West on the Democratic ticket for the post held by the veteran Simeon D. Fess.

West was recognized as President Franklin D. Roosevelt's "New Deal" candidate. Donahey gave only passive support to the "New Deal" but easily defeated his opponents. In the election, Donahey piled up a majority of more than 400,000 to assert Fess, who was an outspoken foe of Roosevelt policies.

Not a Speechmaker

Throughout his political career, Donahey made few speeches. But he met voters in their homes, in their workshops and on the streets. Always, he had a ready greeting, a hand clasp and a backslap.

He went to the U. S. senate to support only what he thought would benefit the people. One of his first votes was against U. S. entry into the world court.

Donahey, in a state normally Republican, achieved an enviable record as a "vote-getter."

Besides making effective changes in the administration of the state auditor's office, he gained favor because of his close watch on the state's bills and his careful administration of valuable school lands containing oil and minerals.

Donahey was of Scotch-Irish ancestry, the son of John Coulter and Harriet Cooley Donahey. He was born in Westchester (Cadwallader), Ohio, July 7, 1873. He grew up in the hills of his native Tuscarawas county.

Also in Printing Trade

He quit high school in his junior year to learn the printing trade. After working for a Massillon newspaper for a year, he purchased with $300 borrowed capital, a printing plant in New Philadelphia. It was during this period that he married Miss Edith Sterling Harvey. They had 11 children, 10 of whom lived to see their father elected to the senate.

Young Donahey's political career began in 1900 as clerk in Goshen township, New Philadelphia. He was reelected in 1902 and was selected county auditor in 1904. He also was named to a second term for that office.

In 1911 he was elected to the fourth Ohio constitutional convention. He also was a member of the New Philadelphia board of education for two years. The senator also was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and several fraternal orders. Because of his printing plant, he held a card in the typographical union.

Immediately upon becoming chief executive, Governor Donahey launched a program to bring Ohio "out of the mud" as he termed it, by building gravel roads instead of hard surface highways. Of the latter the state had been giving an average of about four miles a year, while under the Donahey program they were able to build 35 miles of gravel roads each year. This movement continued throughout his three terms and brought the state highway mileage up to approximately 11,000.

Known as "Vote Vic"

Another distinguishing feature of Governor Donahey's administration was the exercise of his veto power. He established a voluntary legal committee, which made a careful examination of all bills passed by the General Assembly. The governor's study of the bills was supplemented by the committee's advice. Because of the number of bills vetoed the system came to be known as "the veto axe of Vote Vic," and was looked upon as a safeguard against hollish and vicious legislation.

Governor Donahey was prominently mentioned as a candidate for vice president at the Democratic National Convention of 1928.

He, a Democrat in a state normally Republican, served three successive terms as governor, a record unequaled up to his time in Ohio.

In pioneer days, Reuben J. Meigs was elected three successive times, but was prohibited from serving after his first election because at the time he was not a resident of Ohio.

Besides his Washington residence, Donahey maintained homes in Columbus, New Philadelphia and a summer cottage on "Governor's Island" at Indian Lake.

Miss Hinze Weds Harold E. Thomas, Navy War Veteran

A BASKET of white gladioli and snapdragons, green palms, and tall white candles in candelabra decorated the altar of Epworth Methodist church for the wedding Sunday afternoon of Miss Esta Hinze and Harold E. Thomas, which was read at 2 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. J. M. Ingmire, pastor of the church.

The bride who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Hinze of 315 De Soto street, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a bridal gown of heavy white net and satin. The satin bodice with off the net yoke was appliqued edged in a full peplum, and her gathered net skirt extended into a long train. The fingertip length veil was fastened to a tiara fashioned of seed pearls in a leaf design. She wore her mother's pearls, a gift from the bridegroom, and her flowers were a bouquet of red American Beauty roses.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Stanford Steinman, and bridesmaids were Miss Virginia Bowman and Miss Virginia Thomas. Mrs. Steinman was attired in a dress of blue marquisette fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and a full skirt. She carried a bouquet of red carnations. Jackson Says Nazi Defense Anti-Semetic

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, April 9—Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief United States prosecutor, charged before the international military tribunal today that the defense was attempting to "disseminate anti-Semetic propaganda" through the war crimes trial and had committed a "flagrant case of contempt of court."

Jackson based his charges on an exhibit of documentary evidence which the tribunal's presses had printed for defendant Alfred Rosenberg. Jackson contended the material, which he described as "violently anti-Semetic and irrelevant rubbish" had been submitted to the printers by Rosenberg's counsel after it had been rejected by the tribunal.

Recall Four Years Ago Today?
Heroes of Bataan Always Will

By The Associated Press

BATAAN PENINSULA, April 9—A small car flying a white flag carried American officers to the Japanese lines four years ago today to surrender this fog-shrouded peninsula—where General MacArthur's stand with outnumbered, outgunned forces upset the whole timetable of Japanese conquest.

To thousands of Filipinos hunching fearfully by forbidden radios, and to the rest of the world, came these words on April 9, 1942:

"... With heads bloody but unbowed, they have yielded to superior force and numbers.... The world will long remember the epic struggle that Filipino and American forces put up in the jungle fastness and along the rugged coast of Bataan.

"For what sustained them... was a force more than physical. It was the force of unconquerable faith.

"Bataan has fallen, but the spirit that made it stand—a beacon to all the liberty-loving people of the world—cannot fall."

The words came from "The Voice of Freedom" the radio of still embattled Corregidor. They were written by Capt. Salvador P. Lopez, former executive officer on Gen. Jonathan Wainwright's staff.

Lopez now is back at his old job with the Manila Post—whose pages recently heralded the death before an American firing squad of Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma, cruel conqueror of both Bataan and Corregidor. A convicted war criminal, Homma was condemned for the ruthless cruelties of his troops as they crushed the last formal resistance in the Philippines.

Of the dead, many—both Americans and Filipinos—still lie in jungle graves on this century-wooded peninsula.

Lt. Col. L. V. Greene reported that the U. S. Army has located the graves of many of the soldiers buried early in the Bataan campaign, identifying them through diaries and interviews with survivors.

Greene said that the best information showed 1,600 American soldiers and 13,000 Filipinos were killed in the withdrawal to Bataan and in the ensuing action there. Six hundred Americans and 5,000 Filipinos were killed in the massacre which immediately followed the fall of Bataan. An additional 500 Americans and 11,000 Filipinos died on the death march which Homma ordered.

After the defeated troops had reached Cabanatuan prison camp an estimated 30,000 Filipinos and 2,000 Americans died, Greene added.

Heroes of Bataan Take Over Boston

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, April 9—This is the day that the heroes of Bataan and Corregidor take over Boston.

Those once dirty, shuffling, half-starved men who walked and fell and got up again to walk under the flaying rifles and swords of their Japanese enemies in April and May 1942, were spruced up to the limit today.

Some of the zest was taken out of their first contentment when they were informed that their old commander, Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, would be unable to attend.

If anyone thinks that long months of torture dampened their enthusiasm for army life, however, listen to Cy Stewart, chief of staff of the Bataan division of the parade:

"A great majority of them already has re-signed up again or are about to do so," he told a reporter. Another Bataan survivor estimates the re-enlistments at 90 per cent.

More Than OPA on Trial

THE PRESENT battle of inflation is not merely an OPA fight. It is not a question of whether OPA should be abolished or not. It is not a question of whether the agency should be strengthened or weakened. It is not a question of whether the OPA should be given more power or less power.

The OPA is only a symbol. It is only a convenient target for the public's wrath. It is only a convenient whipping boy for the public's frustrations.

The real battle is between the public and the producers. The public wants to buy goods at prices it can afford to pay. The producers want to sell goods at prices that will yield them a profit.

The public wants to buy goods at prices that are reasonably close to the prices that prevailed during the war years when the public had the money to buy but the goods were not available. The producers want to sell goods at prices that will yield them a profit on the basis of the high costs of production that prevail today.

The public wants to buy goods at prices that will enable it to maintain the standard of living it enjoyed during the war years when it had plenty of money to spend. The producers want to sell goods at prices that will enable them to pay the high wages that labor is demanding today.

The public wants to buy goods at prices that will enable it to maintain the standard of living it enjoyed during the war years when it had plenty of money to spend. The producers want to sell goods at prices that will enable them to pay the high wages that labor is demanding today.

That is precisely what some of the most influential critics of the enterprise system have pointed to as its crowning shortcoming. Under the system, boom and collapse, feast and famine too often and too quickly. More than OPA is involved in the current price control problem and inflation.

Jackson Says Nazi Defense Anti-Semetic

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, April 9—Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief United States prosecutor, charged before the international military tribunal today that the defense was attempting to "disseminate anti-Semetic propaganda" through the war crimes trial and had committed a "flagrant case of contempt of court."

Jackson based his charges on an exhibit of documentary evidence which the tribunal's presses had printed for defendant Alfred Rosenberg. Jackson contended the material, which he described as "violently anti-Semetic and irrelevant rubbish" had been submitted to the printers by Rosenberg's counsel after it had been rejected by the tribunal.

Recall Four Years Ago Today? Heroes of Bataan Always Will

By The Associated Press

BATAAN PENINSULA, April 9—A small car flying a white flag carried American officers to the Japanese lines four years ago today to surrender this fog-shrouded peninsula—where General MacArthur's stand with outnumbered, outgunned forces upset the whole timetable of Japanese conquest.

To thousands of Filipinos huddling fearfully by forbidden radios, and to the rest of the world, came these words on April 9, 1942:

"... With heads bloody but unbowed, they have yielded to superior force and numbers .... The world will long remember the epic struggle that Filipino and American forces put up in the jungle fastness and along the rugged coast of Bataan.

"For what sustained them ... was a force more than physical. It was the force of unconquerable faith.

"Bataan has fallen, but the spirit that made it stand—a beacon to all the liberty-loving people of the world—cannot fall."

The words came from "The Voice of Freedom," the radio of still embattled Corregidor. They were written by Capt. Salvador P. Lopez, former executive officer on Gen. Jonathan Wainwright's staff.

Lopez now is back at his old job with the Manila Post—whose pages recently heralded the death before an American firing squad of Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma, current conqueror of both Bataan and Corregidor. A convicted war criminal, Homma was condemned for the ruthless cruelties of his troops as they crushed the last formal resistance in the Philippines.

Of the dead, many—both Americans and Filipinos—still lie in jungle graves on this densely wooded peninsula.

Lt. Col. L. V. Greene reported that the U. S. Army has located the graves of many of the soldiers buried early in the Bataan campaign, identifying them through diaries and interviews with survivors.

Greene said that the best information showed 1,650 American soldiers and 13,000 Filipinos were killed in the withdrawal to Bataan and in the holding action there. Six hundred Americans and 3,000 Filipinos were killed in the massacre which immediately followed the fall of Bataan. An additional 600 Americans and 11,000 Filipinos died on the death march which Homma ordered.

After the defeated troops had reached Cabanatuan prison camp an estimated 30,000 Filipinos and 2,000 Americans died, Greene added.

Heroes of Bataan Take Over Boston

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, April 9—This is the day that the heroes of Bataan and Corregidor take over Boston.

Those once dirty, shuffling half-starved men who walked and fell and got up again to walk under the flaying rifles and swords of their Japanese enemies in April and May 1942, were spruced up to the limit today.

Some of the zest was taken out of their first convention plans when the committee was informed that their old commander, Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, would be unable to attend.

If anyone thinks their long months of torture dampened their enthusiasm for army life, however, listen to Cy Stewart, chief of staff of the Bataan division of the parade.

"A great majority of them already have signed up again or are about to do so," he told a reporter. Another Bataan survivor estimated the re-enlistments at 90 per cent.
